Scene at the Abbey.

Robert Stephenson's funeral took place in London on the 29th, under circumstances of deep and imposing solemnity. A considerable time before the appointed hour, Westminster Abbey was crowded with a distinguished assemblage, numbering nearly 3,000; the streets through which the cortege passed were lined with sympathetic thousands who seemed deeply conscious of the loss the nation had sustained; window-blinds were drawn down, and the ships in the Thames Robert Stephenson's funeral took place in drawn down, and the ships in the Thames drawn down, and the ships in the Thames lowered their flags in token of respect for the illustrious dead. Many of our most distinguished scientific and commercial bodies joined in the procession, and among the pall bearers were Marquis of Chandos and Sir Robert Murchison. The scene inside the Abbey was one of the most painful description. Stern men shed burning tears over the tomb of their old friend and trusty advisey, and Mr. Locke, the sminent engineer, disand Mr. Locke, the eminent engineer, dis-played, in particular, an intensity of grief which wrung the hearts of the bystanders. Royalty did not lend its presence to the cale-bration of the obsequies of one of the greatest of England's untitled princes; but we have it, on the authority of the Duke of Cambridge, that her majesty deeply sympathized with the deep and general feeling of regret which Stephenson's death has evoked.

The Globe says many great men have been buried in Westminster Abbey, but we have buried in Westminster Absey, our which we no record of such a scene as that which we witnessed on the 29th. The whole proceedings were devoid of show or pomp. The funeral was simple in the extreme, but the mourners at the place of burial gave dignity and impressiveness to the scene.

SCHAMYL IN ST. PETERSBURG .- A late letter from St. Petersburg says of the Caucasian haro:

On the day of his arrival a compact crowd gathered around the entrance of the hotel where he lodged, and at all the points where it was expected he would pass in going to visit the chief authorities. He appeared quite at his ease—in no way disconcerted. Schamyl went to see the museums of natural history, and the transfer of Sciences. In the every and the Academy of Sciences. In the evening he was at the Italian opera, in the box of Prince Anatole Baryatinski, brother to the commander-in-chief of the army of the Cau-casus. The scene where "Amina," in Sonnam-bula, comes down the ladder from the mill, produced a great effect on the Kazi Maho met he Iman's son.

Schamyl is enchanted with all he seem in Russia. "Had I known your country sooner," said he, "had I seen all I now see, I should have made my submission long since." Well have made my submission long since." Well said, certainly, but perhaps the avowal may not be altogether sincere. The Iman is evidently a clever man. His answers betoken considerable apropos. When asked what had most pleased him in Russia, Schamyl replied, "The kind reception of the Emparor."

OUTBACEOUS TREATMENT OF GAISI AT MAD-OUTBACEOUS TREATMENT OF GRISI AT MAD-SID.—Madame Grisi lately met with a very unfriendly reception in Madrid, from what cause we are not informed. A Madrid letter (no date) in the Independence Belge says that at the performance of Norma, fifty or sixty persons, hired for the purpose, and placed in little groups in the upper galleries, greeted her with groups and noises of all kinds which com-pletely drowned the voices of Madame (Grisi pletely drowned the voices of Madame Grisi and Mario. The uproar was at its hight at the commencement of the duet in the second act. Potatoes were then thrown from the upper galleries, falling at the feet of Madamo Grisi, and rebounding into the pit. The pub-lic in the boxes and other parts of the house rose indignantly to protest against such an outrage, but Madame Grisi withdrew, her face bathed in tears. Mario attempted for some seconds to brave the storm, but was obliged to leave the stage. One of the employes of the theater came forward to announce that the performance would not be continued, Madam's Grisi having fainted away, overcome with emotion.

A NEW ARCTIC EXPEDITION DENOUNCED .-The London Times in the last igaue received

Here, for the last ton or twelve years, we have been sending expedition after expedition to the ley regions of the North Pole in search of poor Sir John Franklin and his missing ships. The subject has been so long before us that one almost thinks of it now as a matter of history. It is like the retreat from Moscow, or any other calamity inflicted on the human race by the Genius of the North. So much has been done, so much has been ascertained, so little of any value remains to be done, that a man must be a fanatic indeed on the subject of ice who would propose any further explorations into the frozen regions which lie to the northward of the American Continent for the solution of a foregone conclusion.

KIDNAPPING A YOUNG WHITE CHILD IN CHIcaco.—On Saturday last a young female child, two years old, was stolen from the res-idence of its parents, the father, Perter Carsen, a respectable German farmer at Washington Township. Two men in a wagon drawn by a pair of bay horses, were near the premises, and it is supposed took the child way with them.

During Saturday night and Sunday the country was being scoured far and wide by large companies of the residents of that vicinity, in every direction. The child is a girl two years old, light complexion and hair lmost white.

A FIJI ISLAND MARRIAGE FEAST .- Mr. Wil-A FIJI ISLAND MARRIAGE FEAST.—Mr. Williams, an English Missionary, gives an account of a grand marriage feast given by a chief of the Fiji Islands, at the marriage of his daughter, at which the good cheer had to be estimated by yards and hundred-weights rather than by dishes. There was a wall of fish five feet high and twenty yards in length, beside turtles and pigs, and vegetables in proportion. One "dish" at the same feast was tan feat long, four feet wide, and three deep. ten feet long, four feet wide, and three deep, spread over with green leaves, on which were placed rosat pigs and turtles.

AN UNEXPECTED EXPLOSION. - A citizen AN UNEXPECTED EXPLOSION.—A citizen of Hampton, N. H., recently purchased half a pound of powder, which he placed in his stove-oven to dry, where it remained all night. Soon after building the fire in the morning, the good woman of the house was not only astonished but knocked down by the explosion of the powder, which had evidently become dry enough to ignite. The stove and the various cooking utensils in use were completely demolished, and the woman barely escaped a like fate.

AN INGENIOUS YOUNG ROBBER.-A German was robbed in the town of Franklin, Conn., was rebed in the town of Franklin, Cenn., by a mere boy, whom he took into his wagon for a ride along the read; the boy asked him to smell a fine pertune, from a bottle; he smelled, and the next thing he knew he was sitting alone in his wagon; the boy, a watch, $15 in money, and a buffalo robe gone! The little scamp had chloroform in the bettle.

AN ARTIST AFTER OLD BROWN'S HEAD Brackett, the well-known sculptor of Boston, left that city last week for Charlestown, Va. for the purpose of making a bust of "old" John Brown, the hero of the Harper's Perry afair. It is hoped the Virginia authorities will allow the artist to proceed in his design, although it is to bring back to Boston Brown's head.

Robert Stephenson's Funeral-Painful The Feeling in Virginia Concerning LATEST BY TELEGRAPH John Brown.

The Richmond correspondent of the New York Herald writes thence, on the 5th, as fol-

Brown's execution is as certain as that to norrow's sun will rise. All statements made o you to the contrary are without a shadow of oundation. Prograstination of his sad door need not be assumed as a basis for hope by the friends of the unfortunate conspirator. The policy which suggests this should not be understood as contemplating the question of pardon or commutation of sentence. It inparton or commutation of sentence. It involves no such sequence necessarily, and no such purpose is contemplated by this act of clemency. He must die, no matter what the influences in behalf of his pardon may be. Let Brown's friends, therefore, reconcile them-selves as best they can to his sad fate, and spare themselves any further trouble in the line of themselves any further trouble in the line of his pardon or a commutation of his sentence, for it will all prove utterly vain.

Governor Wise is still in the receipt of scores of letters pleading pardon for Old Brown. Some guarantee the Presidency to his Excellency as a prize for this act of mercy; others parade Scriptural quotations on the subject of taking away life, presenting that as God's prerogative alone; while others still resort to threats against the life of the Governor sort to threats against the life of the Governor should he suffer Brown to be executed. Let-ters have been addressed to Brown himself, ters have been addressed to Brown himself, urging him to prolong his trial, and avert his execution to the remotest period possible, that his release was inevitable, and probably near at hand. The inference from this is of course a purpose to rescue, which is just as practicable as the efforts at obtaining a pardon. To all these pleadings and threats the Governor turns a deaf ear. His purpose is irreveable for the a deaf car. His purpose is irrevocably fixed, and that is to hang Brown.

Richmond Paper on Wendell Phillips.

The Richmond Enquirer has this comment n Wendell Phillips's late anti-slavery speech: What means the applause that greeted the treason of Phillips in Brooklyn? What is the world to understand from such an exhibition of approbation? Is this the government of two people, as different in our sentiments of right and wrong as we are in our institutions? When an impudent scoundrel, avowing himself "not a citizen," asserts that one of the States of the Confederacy is not a government, it would pass unheeded, did it not meet the ap-probation and enlist the attention of a crowded audience from a sister State. Our Northern brethren, by such exhibitions of approbation, are fanning the flame of civil discord, which, in an unlooked for hour, will burst forth into a consuming conflagration. We shall feed the new mouldering embers with every particle of fuel furnished by the Northern fanatics. As long as conservatism sits silent and listens coward-like to such treason, we shall inform our readers of public senti-ment at the North, and if the information inflames, why let the consequences fall upon the authors and abettors. It is folly to point Southern people to the Northern press as evi-dence that Brown is execuated at the North. A few more such public meetings as that which applauded Phillips will satisfy the people of the South that the Union has served its purpose, that we are two different people, and that all efforts at continued good feeling, under a common government, are futile.

A BETRAYED WOMAN DESTROYS HERSELF AND Cailly.—Some months since Mrs. C—, a woman of twenty-five years or thereabouts, moved to Elgin. She was an intelligent and handsome woman, and gave out that she had am sliorating the remembrances of her loss by change of scene and society. During her residence her conduct was in every respect exemplary, and she speedily obtained the ret, sympathies and companionship of the best society in the city. Thus matters progressed until some two weeks since, when one night she was suddenly taken ill. A lady of the place was sent for and the sick woman was safely passed through woman's first great trial. The next night the same lady was sent for in haste; she came and found the baby dead, and the mother kneeling by its cold form, and she, too, dying. She lived long enough to tell her that she had not been married, that the father of her child was one of Chicago's wealthiest citizens, and that driven to despair at her disgrace, and the darkness which the future presented, she had administered poison to her child and herself. She positively refused all medical assistance, only requesting that her babe might be laid upon her breast-she pressed a kiss upon its cold lips, and then her spirit fied across the shadowy river to await he coming of her betrayer.

A CALIFORNIAN VOTING A BIG TICKET .- In Stockton, on Wednesday, an hombre at the First Ward Polls, exhibited great fear that a spurious ticket would be played upon him, and thus he would be swindled out of voting for all the men he desired to cast his ballot for. To make himself secure he procured a cloth poster, with the whole State and County ticket printed on it, and walked up to the polls to deposit his ballot. Here was a diemma for the Judges. The cloth poster would fill a peck measure, and there was no means of getting it in the ballot-box. The voter claimed his right of voting his entire ticket, as the law did not say how small the ticket should be. The Judges began scratching their heads. The voter threatened the aw to protect him in his privilege of casting his ballot. The crowd shouted, and the voter held in his arms his ticket, and insisted upon his rights as a citizen of the United States. The Judges became politic and commenced coaxing, when the voter magnanimously consented to vote a ticket of less huge propertions .- San Francisco National.

How THE NEW STATES WERE PROPLED. Emigration from the old to the new States began much earlier than the passage of the first law in 1818, giving pensions to revolu-tionary soldiers, but, in order to show its effects upon that portion of our population, we give some statistics of those who permanently changed their domicil after they were pensioned to other States: From Virginia 46 removed to Ohio, 12 to Kentucky, 16 to District of Colum-bia, 2 to Maryland, 5 to North Carolina, 7 to Missouri, 8 to Indiana, 2 to Illinois, 13 to Tennessee, 3 to Pennsylvania, 2 to New York, and one each to Michigan, Iowa, Georgia and Mississippi. In the six New England States, of those who removed out of New England, 440 went to New York, S1 to Ohio, 6 to Indiana, 440 went to New York, 31 to Unio, 0 to Indiana, 5 to Illinois, 17 to Pennsylvania, 6 to Michigan, 2 to Wisconsin, 1 to Virginia, and 3 to New Jersey. Those from the State of Maine went generally to Ohio, and the number from setleut that removed to New York was much larger than from Massachusetts. -- Wash-

HUME THE SPIRITUALIST .- Hume, the wellknown American rapping medium, recently passed through Paris, with his wife, on his way to America. He not only has lost his power of evoking spirits, but has acquired new and more terrible power. Instead of confining his miracles to conversation and communion be-tween the living and the dead, he now places living, but widely separated, friends in con-nection, and enables them to hold converse together. Such a power is very suggestive, and does not need to have its inconveniences

New York Election. New York, November 9.—The Tribune fig-ures out the result of the election in the State

The five State officers on the American an Republican ticket are certainly elected. This includes Controller, Attorney General, State Treasurer, Judge and Clerk of the Court of Appeals. The other four officers remain in doubt, but the Republicans are probably elected. The new Senate is undoubtedly Republical. lican, probably by an increased majority, and the Assembly is also strongly Republican. The county officers elected are three-fourths Re-

THE CITY .- New York, November 9 .- The city elects one Republican Senator, which is a Democratic loss. The Mozart Hall or Ex-Mayor Wood Democratic nominees fall very far behind the Tammany candidates.

New York, November 9 .- The vote in the city is only 54,000; over 46,000 less than was registered. The Demogratic majority in the city for Controller is 12,777; for Secretary of State, 19,072.

New Jersey Election. TRENTON, N. J., October 9.—The returns from the various sections of the State indicate the election of Charles A. Olden, Republican, as Governor, by about 2,000 majority. The Senate will be Democratic, but the complexion of the House is doubtful.

Salem County-Olden, Opposition, for Governor, has about 100 msjority. Newell, the Democratic candidate for Clerk, is elected. In the first Legislative district, Lippincott, Opposition, is elected by a small majority, and Habarmeyer, Democrat, is elected in the Second District.

Massachusetts Election.

Boston, November 9 .- The returns, cluding nearly the whole State, give Banks, Republican, for Governor, a majority of upwards of 9,000 on the whole vote. His plural ity over Butler, Democrat, is more than 23, The Senate as far as received, stands 34 Republican, 4 Democrat, and 2 doubtful. The House stands 182 Republican, 50 Democrat, and 4 Opposition. The entire Republican State ticket is elected.

Congressional Election. CHICAGO, November 9.—The lines south are working badly. It is impossible to obtain full returns at present from the Sixth Congressional District of this State.

The Springfield correspondent of the Times telegraphs that Sangamon County gives Mc-Clelland (Democrat) 500 majority, and says that the returns from the district indicate his election by from 4,000 to 5,000 majority.

County Election. CHICAGO, November 9 .- The County election yesterday passed off quiet. The vote polled did not exceed half that of the last municipal election. The city gives a Republican majortty of 615. Requisition for Gerritt Smith.

NEW YORK, November 2.—The Tribune understands that Gov. Wise has made a requisition on Gov. Morgan for the surrender of Gerritt Smith, to answer the charge of com-plicity in the Harper's Ferry insurrection. Captain John Brown in Prison. A correspondent of the Boston Traveller thus writes from Charlestown respecting Captain John Brown: handsonie woman, and gare before the lost her husband a few weeks previous, in Chicago, and had sought Elgin with a view of jail, he repeated what he said in Court, that he was perfectly satisfied with the fairness of his trial, and the kindness of his treatment. He said that Captain Avis, his jailor, showed as much kindness in treating him, as he had shown courage in attacking him—"it is what I should expect from a brave man."

that one of the deputy jailers was present, he added, "I don't say this to flatter—it isn't my way—I say it because it is true." Judge Parker appears to have conducted the trial with remarkable candor, dignity and impartiality; and when we conside what a servile insurrection is, the self-control of the people is wonderful.

Brown has not been in irons since the first night, and every possible indulgence is shown him, except the indulgence of delay. Even the speed of the trial is, in part, accounted for by the accident that the term of the Court happened to be held just at this time.

Captain Brown appears perfectly fearless in all respects—says that he has no feeling about death on a scaffold, and believes that every act, "even all the follies that led to this disaster, were decreed to happen ages before the world was made." The only anxiety he expressed was in regard to the cir-cumstances of his family. He speaks highly of his medical attendants, but rejects the of-fered counsel of nil ministers who believe that slavery is right. He will die as fearlessly as he has lived.

JOHN MITCHEL ON FUTURE WARS. - John Mitchel, who is now in Paris, has commenced Mitchel, who is now in Paris, has commenced a series of letters in a Dublin paper, called The Irishman, (similar in its politics and designs to The Nation,) in which his object is to suggest to the Irish peasantry that France will soon be at war with England in the Medivironan and that the opportunity will then terranean, and that the opportunity will then have arrived for inducing the Emperor Napoleon to invade Ireland. "But," exclaims Mr. Mitchel, "who will make the Emperor sure that the Irish people wait for him, and pray for him? How is he to know that two hundred and fifty-two thousand fighting men would be found to follow his eagles from Bantry Bay to Dublin, and from thence if he chose it across to Liverpool? How, above all, are the people— the people of all classes and creeds—to be brought to look steadily toward this as an event not only possible but probable, and which may to each of them bring joy or sorrow just as they demean themselves in it?"

THE COUNTESS GUICCOLL.-The Paris correpondence of the New York Times says: Mr. agnani, of New York, has just finished at his studio in this city, a full-length portrait of the celebrated friend of Byron, the Countess Guiccoli, which is acknowledge to be one of the finest works that ever came from the studio of this painter of celebrities. Even at sixty the Countess, now the Marchioness of Boissy, is r countess, now the Marchioness of Boissy, is a handsome woman, and shows all the traces of that remarkable beauty which captivated the heart and inspired the pen of the great poet. Mrs. Fagnani has in her possession a small look of Byron's hair, presented to her by the Marchiness of Boissy—a beautiful little curl set in glass and gold.

LIBERAL BEQUESTS TO RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES Samuel Cochran, who died recently in New York, made the following charitable bequests: To the American Bible Society, $10,000; to the Old School Presbyterian Church of America, $10,000; to the Board of Foreign Missions of the Free Church of Scotland, $10,000; to the Board of Domestic Missions of the Free Church of Scotland, $10,000; to the Board of Foreign Missions of the Old School Presbyterian Church, $10,000. If none of the Societies above-named are now existing in Scotland the testator directs that the money be given to the Free Church of Scotland. He devoted the residue of his property to dispensing the Gospel of Christ in and around the City of New York, and throughout his native land,
